[TALENT] Get ready for the NBA Playoffs: We've Got 4 Teams In The 2018 East Semis! Check Out The Previous Finals We've Had In The East Over the Past 10 Years! Top NBA Players Have Tied Game Scores! The Nets will only be without Noah for the next two games, but they might need to be careful against a Bulls team that beat them on Jan. 15 and 26. The Bulls are in a 2-way tie for the No. 6 seed, and are running away with a win on the road against a bad Philadelphia team. The Wizards are tied for the No. 5 seed and are at.500 on the road, having beaten the Lakers on Dec. 29 and the Bucks on Jan. 11. On Feb. 6, the Wizards beat the Pelicans, but have the Wizards next up on the road at the Bulls. The Bulls will be coming off the injury and loss to Noah, but they beat the Nets at home last week, and have a much better offense. If the Nets beat the Wizards, they'll have a chance to take control of the No. 4 seed and a matchup against the Cavaliers. There is also a slight chance the Cavaliers could earn a home-and-home against the Raptors in the first round. The Trail Blazers and the Lakers are in a 1-way tie for the No. 7 seed, and the Trail Blazers have a.500 record on the road. They've played the Spurs in a three-game series, but lost all three games by three points or less. The Lakers will be looking to avoid the Blazers, the Knicks, the Bucks, and the Raptors in the first round. With the Raptors being eliminated, the Wizards will not be able to make the playoffs if they're tied with the Bulls. The Nets have a little bit more cushion than the Bulls, but they will have to hope that they're not matched up with the Trail Blazers in the first round. All four of those teams could make the playoffs. In other NBA news, Giannis Antetokoumpo has received the MVP.
